

I would like you to know that I am extremely concerned about the coming vote. I believe that FCC policy changes in the past decade have created a virtual monopoly in the news and entertainment media of the U.S. I think allowing further media control by the current monopolies would be a frighteningly fascist move by the Committee. Note that these days I read the American newspapers, or watch TV news to get an idea of what the uninformed masses are hearing in the way of conglomerate propaganda. I get most of my own news from alternative, Internet sources, or from international publications. Please help! It seems obvious that further deregulation would be unwise. I can't understand what would motivate a vote to remove further restrictions on monopolies. What about democratic principles?

Thank you for your attention. Su
